

EXHIBIT 114

TIME Specials

200YEARS

Main | TIME 100 | Person of the Year | Worst Cars | Beyond 9/11 | Top 10 | All-TIME 100

The Top 10 Everything of 2010

In 50 wide-ranging lists, TIME surveys the highs and lows, the good and the bad, of the past 12 months

Story

All Best and Worst Lists

Top 10 Gadgets

2. Samsung Galaxy S

By DOUG AAMOTH Thursday, Dec. 09, 2010

BACK

NEXT

142 of 500 | View All

In phones, 2010 was the year of the Android. Google's mobile software was installed on slightly more than 9 million smart phones in the third quarter of 2010, according to research firm Canalis. That means 44% of all new smart phones run on Android, up from about 5% a year ago. Among those Android phones, one of the best to be released in 2010 was the Samsung Galaxy S. Unlike the iPhone, the Galaxy S works with a number of carriers and comes in a number of models. The phone's best feature is its screen: it's astonishingly bright, even in daylight. It also is thinner and consumes less power than traditional LCDs, reducing the Galaxy's overall weight and thickness.

Price: $200 to $250, plus service.

PRINT | EMAIL | + SHARE

Tweet

View the full list for "The Top 10 Everything of 2010"