

DON'T TAKE THE BAIT

Cybercriminals are out to get our data, but they only succeed when we fall for their tricks. You can help keep them out of our systems.

To avoid phishing (email) and smishing (text) scams:

- Never click links from unknown senders – in emails or texts.
- Confirm the sender's identity by checking their address for suspicious variations.
- Watch for unusual or unexpected messages or requests to verify your password.
- Never provide passwords or other confidential information online.

If you're ever unsure if a message is valid, check with IT or an internal resource before you click on any links.
