CN handles consumer goods and other intermodal traffic through our terminal in Moncton, where over 250 CN railroaders live and work. Other CN facilities in Moncton include a major rail classification yard as well as automotive and forest products distribution centres and a CargoFlo® bulk handling facility. CN's network extends to the ports of Belledune and Saint John, where we have another CargoFlo® bulk handling facility.

In partnership with the Port of Saint John, CN is committed to enabling supply chains and facilitating business in Atlantic Canada. Our weekly CN IntelliGen Genset Service moves temperature-sensitive goods between Saint John, NB, and Brampton, ON.

Network Investments

Over the past decade, CN has invested about $275 million to build and maintain a safe and efficient network in New Brunswick and to support our supply chain partners. The program focused on bridge upgrades, the replacement of rail and ties, plus maintenance of public crossings, culverts, signal systems, and other track infrastructure.
