Last updated: January 26, 2024.

This Platform Privacy Policy describes how Viant Technology, Inc. and our subsidiary and affiliate companies that share common branding (collectively, “Viant,” “we,” or “us”), collect, use, and disclose information about you in connection with our demand side advertising platform and related services we provide to advertising agencies, advertisers, and other companies (our “Clients”) that allow them to plan and execute digital media advertising campaigns and measure and analyze the performance of those campaigns (our “Ad Services”).

To opt out of Viant using and disclosing your information for certain advertising purposes, please see “Your Choices” below or visit our Privacy Center.

Please note that this Platform Privacy Policy covers the information we process as a “data controller” and does not apply to information we handle on behalf of our Clients (i.e., when Viant acts as a service provider/processor). 1. INFORMATION WE COLLECT

Like other digital advertising companies, our Ad Services rely on identifiers and other data about your online and offline activity to help our Clients run more effective advertising campaigns.

Categories of information we collect

To power our Ad Services, we collect data about consumers of digital media (“you” or “Users”), devices, and ads and where they’re published. The categories of information we collect include:

- Pseudonymous identifiers (meaning identifiers that do not directly identify Users), such as IP addresses, cookie identifiers, mobile advertising identifiers, and other device identifiers, such as those associated with your connected television (“CTV”).
- Other identifiers, such as email addresses (from which we generate pseudonymized versions) and postal addresses.
- Browser and device information, such as device type and model, manufacturer, operating system type and version (e.g., iOS or Android), web browser type and version (e.g., Chrome or Safari), carrier name, time zone, and network connection type (e.g., Wifi or cellular).
- Interest and demographic information about Users, such as audience interest segments and purchase information, including interest information we infer or generate, and information made available in our Ad Services by others.
- Location information, including when inferred from an IP address and sometimes including precise geolocation information (GPS data) if provided via our Ad Services by others.
- Data about advertisements shown and User engagement with the ad, such as the type of ad, where it was shown, whether the User clicked on it, how many times the User has seen a given ad, and whether the User subsequently visited the Client’s site or app, made a purchase, or took other actions based on the ad.
- Other information about Users’ activity online and in mobile apps, such as sites visited, duration of visit, and activities on these properties.

Sources of information

Our Ad Services receive information from a host of sources, including:

- Information collected automatically about Users through cookies and similar tracking technologies, including pixels, web beacons, and, in mobile apps, SDKs, used by Viant, our Clients, and our data partners. These technologies automatically collect information about the sites and apps you visit and help our Ad Services identify devices and browsers over time and across services.

- Our Clients upload information to the Ad Services, such as information about audiences or identifiers they aim to reach with their advertising campaigns.
- We work with data partners who make information available on our Ad Services for us and our Clients to use to improve their advertising campaigns and measure the effectiveness of those campaigns.
- Other stakeholders in the digital advertising ecosystem, particularly companies that provide information about ad space available on sites, apps, CTVs, and other devices or services that publish ads (also known as the “supply” side of the advertising ecosystem). These supply stakeholders share bid requests with us that describe available ad space and typically include identifiers, information about the device, and other information that the supply stakeholder chooses to include. Viant can often match the bid request data with other identifiers we have in our Ad Services, which helps our Clients more effectively target their advertising campaigns.
- Our Ad Services may receive information from MySpace, LLC, which is a Viant affiliate, subject to the MySpace Privacy Policy.

2. HOW WE USE INFORMATION

Providing the Viant Services: We use the information we collect to provide our Ad Services, including to:

- Help our Clients develop and execute digital advertising campaigns that reach their intended audiences;
- Enable technical delivery of our Clients’ ads;
- Measure, evaluate, and report on the effectiveness of ads, such as by determining whether a User clicked on the ad or took another action after seeing the ad; and
- Limit the number of times a User sees the same ad (known as “frequency capping”).

Building our Identity Graph and Interest Segments: We also use the information we collect to build and improve our identity graph, which involves combining information collected across multiple sites, devices, and mobile apps to create profiles and interest segments that help us more effectively target future advertisements. We do so by establishing connections between a User’s devices, including by cookie matching and linking devices to common data or activities, sometimes based on assumptions. Cross-device connections allow Viant to infer that a single User or household is accessing advertisements served or measured by Viant from multiple devices and to better target advertising and measure the performance of advertisements across those devices.

In building our identity graph and providing our Ad Services, we may combine information we receive about you from third parties (including our affiliates) with other information that we hold about you. We and our Clients use this combined information to create interest-based segments that we and our Clients can use to display more relevant advertisements and other content to Users.

Other Purposes: We also use the information we collect to improve, protect, and operate our business, including to:

- Detect and protect against fraud or malicious activity in connection with our Ad Services;
- Analyze and improve our Ad Services;
- Develop new products and services;
- Protect the rights and property of our Clients, Viant, or others; and
- Comply with our legal and financial obligations.

3. HOW WE DISCLOSE INFORMATION

We may disclose the information we collect in the following scenarios:

- Clients and their designees. We disclose information to Clients or their designees (such as a designated measurement vendor) in connection with providing our Ad Services, such as to report on ad performance or share campaign details.
- Publishers and “supply” stakeholders. We may disclose certain information to publishers, or those operating on their behalf on the “supply” side of the advertising ecosystem, to aid with bidding on ad space and ad delivery.
- Affiliates. We may disclose your information within our family of companies for the purposes described in this Platform Privacy Policy.
- Vendors, consultants, and service providers. We may disclose your information with service providers, vendors, contractors, or agents who perform functions on our behalf, such as providing data storage, technical support for our Ad Services, or fraud prevention services.
- Business transfers. We may disclose information in connection with a reorganization, merger, sale, joint venture, assignment, transfer, or other disposition of all or any portion of our business, or assets.
- Legal purposes. We may disclose your information if we believe it is necessary or appropriate: (a) under applicable law; (b) to comply with subpoenas, warrants, or other legal process; (c) to respond to requests from public and government authorities; (d) to enforce our terms and conditions; (e) to protect our operations or those of any of our affiliates; (f) to protect our rights, privacy, safety or property, and/or that of our affiliates, you or others; and (g) to allow us to establish or exercise our legal rights or defend against legal claims.
