Wired into Washington

Wiley is a preeminent law firm wired into Washington. We advise Fortune 500 corporations, trade associations, and individuals in all industries on legal matters converging at the intersection of government, business, and technological innovation. Our attorneys and public policy advisors are highly respected and have nuanced insights into the mindsets of agencies, regulators, and lawmakers. We are the destination in DC for many of the most innovative and transformational companies, business groups, and nonprofit organizations. From artificial intelligence and autonomous vehicles to blockchain technologies, we combine our focused industry knowledge and unmatched understanding of Washington to anticipate challenges, craft policies, and formulate solutions for emerging innovators and industries. More about Wiley can be found at wiley.law.

The Wiley Way

The last few years brought unprecedented challenges to the legal industry and the clients it serves. Law firms such as Wiley were forced to reevaluate how they worked and delivered client service. During this time, we have found innovative ways to stay competitive, provide exceptional service to our clients, and grow by communicating and collaborating more effectively.

In 2023, we celebrated our 40th anniversary. We have evolved from a firm of 39 attorneys – founded in 1983 with a primary focus in Communications and Litigation – to one with more than 260 lawyers and advisors that is globally known for its work in a wide range of practices. Our founders, Dick Wiley and Bert Rein, had the foresight to establish our firm in the nation’s capital, where we could position ourselves as advisors where policy and business converged. We are proud of our reputation as a go-to firm in Washington, DC for regulatory insights and litigation strength.

With our clients’ trust, we have been able to build and fortify our relationships with policymakers, government agencies, and industry organizations to help the world’s largest companies navigate the complexities of the rapidly changing litigation and regulatory landscapes. As you’ll see in the highlights within our Year in Review, we are working on precedent-setting matters for clients facing regulatory hurdles, enforcement actions, contract and intellectual property disputes, high-stakes litigation, and other ripples hindering innovation and transformational change.

Together we have also worked on highly publicized Pro Bono matters, hired high-profile attorneys, promoted leaders from within, reinforced our retention and diversity initiatives, and sought ways to be a part of and give back to the community in which we live and work.

Collaboration is our key to growth and is central to what we do. It’s why we are the trusted advisors for many U.S. businesses, contractors, and associations. Working together builds trust within our organization and with our clients. Teamwork and trust will continue to foster the next generation of leaders at our firm so that we can celebrate Wiley’s growth for many more years to come.

Pro Bono Program & Community Engagement

Wiley prides itself on a strong tradition of service to the local and global community and encourages its attorneys and legal assistants to participate in pro bono activities. Our representations, which stem from Wiley’s pro bono mission to provide equal access to the justice system for individuals and groups who would otherwise be unable to afford counsel, have included noteworthy cases and a diverse array of matters referred through legal service providers with whom we have forged close ties. Some of the outstanding organizations with whom we partner include the D.C. Bar Pro Bono Center, the Legal Aid Society of D.C., and the Washington Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs, among many others. In 2023, our attorneys and legal assistants conducted almost 9,000 hours of pro bono work on nearly 150 matters in numerous forums, including the U.S. Supreme Court.

Highlights of Our Pro Bono Matters:

Wiley Secures Supreme Court Victory in Double Jeopardy Case: In a pro bono victory that also highlights the capabilities of our Issues and Appeals Practice, Wiley persuaded the U.S. Supreme Court to reject, in a unanimous decision, an attempt by the state of Georgia to prosecute a Wiley pro bono client a second time for the same offense. The Court held that federal law, not state law, determines what is an acquittal and that the Double Jeopardy Clause of the Fifth Amendment prohibited Georgia's effort to characterize a jury's verdict of acquittal as something other than an acquittal.

Wiley Secures Victory for Disability Rights Maryland in Pro Bono Lawsuit Against Prince George's County Public Schools: Wiley secured an important victory on behalf of Disability Rights Maryland (DRM) in a lawsuit against Prince George's County Public Schools related to claims of excessive application of inappropriate and exclusionary forms of discipline on students with disabilities. With Wiley's help, DRM was able to secure summary judgment in federal court, which ordered the school district to supply DRM with the parent or guardian contact information for adversely affected students eligible for special education in the district, as part of DRM's investigation into the claims of discriminatory discipline.

Wiley Wins Pro Bono Criminal Case, Securing Dismissal on Behalf of Sudanese Refugee and Professor: Wiley persuaded the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Maryland to voluntarily dismiss its case against a Sudanese refugee and prominent microbiology professor. The U.S. government had charged Wiley's client with falsifying documents in response to a government audit of her employer, with the allegations arising from the client's work at the American Islamic Congress. The Wiley team, in partnership with the Public Defender's Office in Maryland, debunked the allegations against the client and the government dropped all charges and dismissed the indictment against Wiley's client.

Wiley Secures Victory for Client in Incarceration Reduction Amendment

Act Petition: Wiley successfully petitioned the Superior Court of the District of Columbia on behalf of a pro bono client, who asked the court for a reduced sentence under an extension of the Incarceration Reduction Amendment Act, adopted by the DC Council in 2020. In the April 2023 decision, Wiley’s client’s IRAA motion was granted, and he was given a reduction in his original life sentence to time served, after serving 28 years for a crime he committed when he was 20 years old.

Wiley Amicus Brief Helps Persuade Fourth Circuit to Reject Obsolete Rule

on Attorneys Fees: An amicus brief authored by Wiley’s Pro Bono Partner on behalf of 13 nonprofit public interest legal services organizations helped persuade the Fourth Circuit to overturn an obsolete prohibition on certain attorneys’ fees awards in civil rights cases. The en banc court’s August ruling rejected a long-standing precedent under which a civil rights plaintiff who obtained a preliminary injunction was precluded, as a matter of law, from obtaining an award of attorneys’ fees as the “prevailing party” under 42 USC Sec. 1988.

Wiley’s Pro Bono Program Achieves ‘Significant Result’ on Behalf of Immi- gration Client: Wiley attorneys successfully secured the release of an immigration client from the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement’s Alternatives to Detention Program. Alleging that ICE had denied the client procedural due process under the Fifth Amendment, Wiley filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on the client’s behalf in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia. Wiley was subsequently notified that ICE would be removing the client from its program and would also remove his ankle monitor after three years of electronic surveillance, allowing the case to be dismissed.

Client Successes

In 2023, Wiley attorneys worked on first-of-their-kind, precedent-setting, and complex matters for clients across our practice areas. Here are a few highlights of those achievements.

Government Contracts: Wiley is at the center of some of the largest and most important matters in government contracts, including representing The Boeing Company as intervenor in a successful defense of a $537 million contract award in a strategically important, partially classified Defense Intelligence Agency procurement for enterprise-wide IT support. The competition was heavily contested by rival bidder CACI, which filed multiple GAO protests. Wiley developed factual and legal responses to CACI's numerous protest grounds – and GAO sided with Boeing and DIA when it denied CACI's protest in March 2023, allowing performance of the new contract award to begin.

Insurance: As the go-to firm for major insurers facing complex and novel legal challenges, Wiley secured a precedent-setting Seventh Circuit victory in a coverage dispute stemming from a $20 million settlement of a shareholder lawsuit about the price of a corporate merger. The 2023 ruling, in Joy Global Inc. v. Columbia Casualty Company, represents the first appellate decision in favor of insurers concerning the applicability of a “bump-up” provision, an issue that is being litigated in several courts across the U.S. Representing the primary insurer in the case, Wiley took the lead role in successfully briefing and arguing the appeal for a tower of insurers.

Intellectual Property: On behalf of generic drug manufacturer Macleods Pharmaceuticals Ltd., Wiley helped persuade a federal court to invalidate a patent for a widely used cardiovascular medication. The U.S. District Court for the District of Delaware ruled that a patent held by Novartis for Entresto, a heart-failure drug that earned billions of dollars worldwide in 2022, was invalid for lacking an adequate written description. The ruling was a victory for Macleods Pharma and two other manufacturers that are seeking to sell generic versions of Entresto.

International Trade: Wiley has one of the largest trade practices in the country, and is working closely with the U.S. government on global negotiations with the European Union and others to write the climate change trade rules for the steel industry for decades to come. Wiley also filed the largest new trade cases of the year on behalf of U.S. aluminum extruders, against 14 countries and affecting billions of dollars in trade. Our team secured a favorable ruling from the International Trade Commission in November 2023, taking the domestic industry a step closer to restoring a level playing field to the U.S. aluminum extrusions market.

Issues and Appeals: Wiley, representing two former SEC Chief Economists as amici, helped persuade the Fifth Circuit to nullify the SEC's new share-repurchase rule in Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, et al. v. SEC. Finding the SEC rule "arbitrary and capricious" in an October 31 decision, the court agreed with arguments advanced by the petitioners, and by Wiley in an amicus brief authored on behalf of the two economists. The brief, filed in support of the petitioners, argued that the SEC had not provided "any credible support" to justify the rule, which would impose "substantial costs" with "no discernable benefits."

Telecom, Media & Technology: Wiley won a federal lawsuit challenging exorbitant fees imposed by the city of Rochester, NY on 5G small cell and fiber optic facilities in public rights of way (Case No. 6:20-cv-06866). The fees threaten the rollout of broadband infrastructure in the city, and as a result they violate the federal Communications Act and the FCC's implementing regulations. The favorable rulings secured by Wiley in this case are critical to the wireless and broadband industries' ability to quickly deploy new high-speed services to U.S. consumers – and the principles in this case could have a multibillion-dollar impact in jurisdictions across the country.

In keeping with the dynamic and nimble firm that Wiley has always been, we have embraced the challenges of the future, working with our next-generation leaders to innovate and expand our services to best meet the complex, diverse, and evolving needs of our clients. We have an exceptional depth of knowledge regarding our clients' industries and the challenges that cut across multiple areas of law and policy.

Our experience and agility mean we can quickly assemble the right team under one roof, each and every time. These collaborative efforts have attracted many new Wiley clients, including innovative technology and life-sciences companies as well as startups that are launching new industries and changing the 21st century landscape. The following pages summarize our practices and detail our unique value proposition.

Corporate

With extensive experience and a deep understanding of our clients' businesses, market dynamics, and regulatory obligations, our Corporate attorneys work with colleagues across the firm's practices to ensure highly complex transactions are structured to meet clients' targeted business goals. Our Corporate partners all have more than 20 years of experience handling a wide variety of acquisitions, divestitures, mergers, and restructuring transactions, by both public and private mid-market companies, with transaction values ranging from less than $1 million to more than $2 billion, often in highly regulated industries. Our collaborative team has unparalleled industry and regulatory knowledge, extensive deal experience, and lawyers with the discerning legal skills to provide a comprehensive range of transactional services required by our clients.

Election Law & Government Ethics

Founded as the first election law practice in the country, our group is led by former FEC Chairman Michael E. Toner. It includes former FEC commissioners, former steering committee members of the Council on Governmental Ethics Laws, the former Chief Counsel and Staff Director of the U.S. Senate and House Ethics Committees, and former counsel to several federal agencies. Our advice and advocacy for clients, many of them Fortune 500 companies – as well as leading political campaigns, parties, and political action committees (PACs) – extends to federal, state, and local activities. Whether assisting in creating new political strategies, integrating a full-service legal and regulatory compliance plan, or representing a client in legal proceedings, we devise effective and tactical solutions that go beyond the immediate issue to help our clients remain far ahead and well-positioned for success.

Environment & Product Regulation

Uniquely positioned to address the most nuanced environmental and consumer product issues facing businesses today, our Environment & Product Regulation Practice is deeply embedded in Washington. Our multidisciplinary team comprises lawyers, consultants, and regulatory analysts who assist clients with environmental, legal, and business challenges across every single phase of the lifecycle of a consumer product. We partner on high-level policy, regulatory, litigation, and enforcement matters for clients ranging from some of the largest publicly held companies in the world to private entities and trade associations engaged in all levels of the supply chain.

Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG)

While Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) concerns have long been a focus for many companies, the issue has moved to the forefront of global commerce and is now an urgent priority among market participants and regulators. As a uniquely situated Washington, DC firm, our team of interdisciplinary lawyers covers a broad range of topics and issues, including supply chain concerns, sustainability, climate change, social impact, human rights, data protection, diversity, and more. Our lawyers understand how to navigate the rapidly changing, complex regulatory and political environment that has made ESG implementation and compliance a top concern of corporate leaders. Wiley's subject matter experts routinely collaborate with our government-facing lawyers and litigators to help clients achieve their ESG goals and showcase their ESG accomplishments in a manner that passes the toughest regulatory and investor scrutiny.

Food & Drug

For life sciences companies worldwide, our Food & Drug Practice provides crucial legal and regulatory counsel to help our clients – from global corporations to innovative startups – stay ahead of the curve in an industry defined by change. Operating at the intersection of law, policy, business, technology, and scientific innovation, Wiley is a Washington institution with a global impact, providing indispensable counsel to pharmaceutical, medical device, biotechnology, clinical research, food and dietary supplements, animal feed and drug, and cosmetic companies. As these industries face unprecedented complexities and challenges, we draw on our decades of experience – and trusted relationships with key decision-makers at all levels of government – to provide the integrated regulatory, legal, and strategic counsel our clients need to adapt and thrive.

FTC Regulation

Led by the former Assistant Director of Financial Practices at the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), we are unmatched in representing clients who deal with the broad range of the agency's work. We have a deep bench of attorneys with experience serving a wide array of companies and business groups who deal with FTC and consumer regulatory issues across industries. We have deep knowledge of the agency and effectively advocate for our clients' interests. We leverage our cross-disciplinary teams to assemble the most effective representation for every client matter. From Fortune 100 companies to small and emerging businesses, we advise clients on complex and sophisticated issues and help clients engage with the FTC and other agencies on consumer-related matters – including privacy, data security, advertising, financial practices, and industry self-regulatory efforts.

Government Contracts

Our reputation and credibility with decision-makers in virtually every part of the government is unparalleled, leveraging our deep bench of cross-disciplinary talent to assemble the ideal team for every client matter – from the largest defense contractors to small and emerging businesses. Our team includes more than 45 attorneys and consultants who provide the full range of government contracts legal counseling and litigation services. Clients turn to us for our deep experience, strong bench, and ability to craft legally sound solutions that meet their business objectives while controlling costs. Because of our successes and reputation for client service, Wiley is consistently ranked by Chambers USA in the top tier of the nation's government contracts practices.

Named an Insurance
“Practice Group of the Year”
by *Law360

Health Care

Our Health Care Practice handles the full spectrum of matters relating to the procurement of health care benefits and services – including contract disputes, Medicare compliance and contract administration, HIPAA privacy and security requirements, and health care fraud investigations, to name just a few.

For more than 20 years, we have counseled a diverse array of for-profit and not-for-profit health care contractors in connection with government programs including Medicare, Medicaid, the Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB) Program, and the U.S. Department of Defense TRICARE program. We also provide guidance on statutory and regulatory requirements impacting commercial and/or government health care programs, including the Affordable Care Act (ACA), HIPAA/HITECH, and the Medicare Secondary Payer statute.

Insurance

Wiley is the go-to firm for insurance carriers facing high-profile disputes and novel legal challenges. One of the most prominent insurer-side practices in the country, we represent our clients in professional liability, cyber, general liability, bad faith, and appellate matters throughout all 50 states. As trusted counsel to the largest insurance companies in the United States and around the world, we are broadly recognized for successfully representing insurers on complicated and high-exposure matters. With a deep bench that stands out for its range of legal expertise and an insider’s understanding of the insurance industry, our prominent team is a force of legal capabilities as well as business strategy.

Intellectual Property

Ranked among the top U.S. firms in this unique area of law, we deliver the results IP clients count on when complex innovations and major amounts of capital are at stake – and when the outcomes can determine a client’s future. We offer comprehensive IP services for owners and users of patents, copyrights, trademarks, and trade secrets, with a strategic focus on new technologies, life sciences, biotech, telecommunications, aerospace, and manufacturing. As a preeminent DC firm serving IP clients worldwide, we bring a unique, multidisciplinary perspective to matters involving the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office, the U.S. Copyright Office, the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, and other federal agencies in the IP space. We draw upon our long-standing relationships with these agencies to provide clients with litigation support and prosecution counsel as well as crucial insights and strategic guidance.

International Trade

As one of the largest and most wide-ranging trade practices in the country, we help companies and industries succeed in today’s highly volatile global trade environment – from novel solutions on niche matters to sweeping client victories that transform trade on the world stage. Leveraging our deep legal skill and knowledge, Washington and global policy expertise, and strong government relationships, we win high-stakes trade litigation, navigate complex regulatory barriers, and advance innovative policy initiatives. We work with clients across every level of commerce, from domestic manufacturers seeking import relief to vast global entities and emerging industry disruptors, strategically helping our clients navigate global markets and anticipate key developments – because international trade law and policy are constantly changing.

Issues and Appeals

Described by The Legal 500 US as “hugely effective,” Wiley has a tremendous record in courts at all levels throughout the country. Our “elite cadre of appellate lawyers” (Legal Times) is frequently called upon for bet the company cases or to reverse a lower court, regulatory, or legislative defeat, as we have done many times. The group often takes the lead for an entire industry on a critical issue in litigation across the country. Wiley’s Issues and Appeals Practice also has extensive experience acting as a “private solicitor general” for its clients, moving issues across forums and finding the correct venue and timing for victory. Wiley can also keep clients outside Washington up to date on the latest decisions that may affect them from the Supreme Court and the D.C. and Federal Circuits.

Litigation

For more than three decades, Wiley has effectively advocated our clients’ interests in federal and state courts across the country. Our Litigation Group boasts a diverse team of the most highly credentialed lawyers, including former U.S. Supreme Court, federal circuit, and federal district court clerks, as well as former federal prosecutors. And our litigation expertise is as diverse as our practices, from commercial lawsuits and appeals to international arbitration, white collar defense, and “high-impact” pro bono cases. We are agile enough to handle matters of any size and complexity, ranging from appellate cases of unique constitutional significance to multibillion-dollar trials and smaller but still meaningful matters with less financially at stake.

National Security

Our National Security Practice combines our supply chain and strategic competition, government contracts, international trade, technology and telecom proficiencies, unparalleled relationships in DC, and insights to provide a unique level of service, strategy, and outcomes to national security matters. Our preeminent team is unmatched in representing clients in anticipating and responding to national security business threats and administrative proceedings. We have a deep bench of unique and focused capabilities, strong relationships at numerous government agencies, and extensive experience serving a wide array of clients in every industry that is impacted by national security challenges and liabilities.

Privacy, Cyber & Data Governance

Wiley's Privacy, Cyber & Data Governance team is deep and broad. Our attorneys, many of whom are IAPP-certified, are involved in developing privacy regulations and public policy. We advocate on behalf of clients, in the United States and abroad, for sensible regulation in this rapidly evolving field. We advise clients across the spectrum of emerging data security and privacy laws, covering requirements in the health care, telecommunications, government contracting, and financial services industries (as well as vendors to these industries), and the statutes administered by the FTC. From the high-tech sector to government contractors to fintech to brick-and mortar retailers, we cover a range of challenges and are trusted advisors to companies and associations working on privacy and data security around the world.

received the Broadcasters
Foundation of America “Lifetime Achievement Award”

Public Policy

Wiley’s Public Policy Group provides clients technical expertise and high-level advocacy while leveraging the legal resources of a national law firm. With more than 260 lawyers, advisors, and consultants available to assist our efforts, the Public Policy Group is an industry-leading advocate for trade associations, startups, publicly traded companies, and small and large businesses that operate in the areas of telecommunications, health care, energy, transportation, and international trade. The group has worked closely with members of Congress in both parties, members of the Executive branch, and federal regulators on issues involving the Environmental Protection Agency, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Communications Commission, Food & Drug Administration, Department of Agriculture, Department of Commerce, Department of Defense, Department of Energy, Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Homeland Security, Department of Transportation, and Department of Veterans Affairs.

Telecom, Media & Technology

Our team continues to be the preeminent TMT practice in the United States, if not the world, representing not only the largest and most important companies, but also new and innovative players across the TMT spectrum. Our professionals include individuals who have occupied high-level positions at the FCC, the FTC, the U.S. Department of State, and the U.S. Department of Commerce, as well as on Capitol Hill. With more than 60 attorneys, public policy advisors, and engineers, our practice encompasses an exceptionally broad range of technologies, from traditional matters – such as spectrum allocation, license applications, regulatory compliance, agency investigations, content licensing and distribution, pole attachment proceedings, and litigation – to rapidly evolving innovations such as artificial intelligence (AI), uncrewed aircraft systems (UAS), satellites, blockchain, fintech regulation, and issues associated with the internet and the Internet of Things.

White Collar Defense & Government Investigations

Our elite team is regularly called upon to advise Fortune 500 companies, small and medium companies, business executives, and public officials when they are confronted with criminal and civil government enforcement actions and investigations. The practice is composed of former Assistant United States Attorneys, former congressional investigative counsel, former U.S. Department of Justice and U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission attorneys, and a deep pool of home-grown talent specializing in government investigations and white collar litigation.

We represent clients across the full spectrum of industry sectors; with a special focus on civil and criminal matters involving government contracting; life sciences; international trade; securities and commodities fraud; the False Claims Act; the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act; the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act; the Procurement Integrity Act; conflict-of-interest (anticorruption) statutes; cybersecurity; and election law.
